

KGC Development & Growth

As KGC enters its eighth year of business, the impressive range and diversity of projects now include wastewater treatment plants, solar farms, hospitals, senior retirement homes, mid-stream energy projects, pipelines, commercial developments, industrial facilities and condominium high-rises.

The repeat and referral workload volume for KGC is now trending towards 90%. We have excelled at cooperating and coordinating multiple experts efficiently on the same file dispute. In some instances, we have assisted law firms in providing referral services only to suitable industry experts.

As we approach the Thanksgiving Holiday, we wish to extend a message of appreciation and gratitude for our clients' confidence and trust in our services and support.

Paralegal Support & Commercial Management Training

With staffing challenges plaguing all organizations involved with procurement, through execution, closeout and litigation disputes coming out of the global pandemic disruption, KGC has stepped up its services in two key areas: assisting law firms with paralegal help and supporting various stakeholders with commercial management training has influenced our growth evolution during the past 12 months.

LinkedIn On-Line Marketing Posts

KGC established a dedicated LinkedIn profile earlier this year and will provide helpful content updates periodically in both English and French. A significant base has now developed, exceeding 300 members comprising Lenders, Developers, Owners, Lawyers, Builders and Consultants.

Adjudication Update

With the official release and implementation of the new Alberta Prompt Payment & Construction Lien Act (PPCLA) on August 29, 2022, and the interim appointment of the Alternative Dispute Resolution Institute of Canada (ADRIC) and the Royal Institution of Chartered Surveyors (RICS) as the Authorized Nominating Authority, the commercial management services landscape will begin to evolve significantly going into 2023.

KGC has been actively supporting the initiative of prompt payment and adjudication for the past three years in Ontario and other jurisdictions. Improper invoices, delayed payments and the resulting protracted disputes continue to plague the industry.

Meet another KGC expert

P. Daniel Burns, M. Eng., P.Eng., MBA, FCSCE, FEC, FGC (Hons)

Since joining the company in 2017 as a senior consultant, Dan Burns has worked on some significant construction disputes. He regularly contributes as a technical editor of KGC reports and sales and marketing documentation and assists senior KGC Management with overall corporate strategy and client liaison endeavours.

Dan's background is in civil/structural design engineering, multi-discipline engineering management, department management, construction, project management and business development in western Canada's EPC (Engineering, Procurement & Construction) industry, and in the structural steel fabrication industry in Québec. He has worked in various sectors, including industrial, infrastructure, commercial, institutional, petrochemicals, oil & gas, and pipeline facilities.

Dan has been a member of APEGA since 1981 and was a member of the Ordre des ingénieurs du Québec for over 40 years. He was also a member (and chair for four years) of APEGA's Investigative Committee.

Public Speaking Events

KGC looks forward to presenting online various commercial aspects of the new Alberta PPLCA for the Canadian Western Bank in conjunction with other industry speakers on October 13, 2022.

KGC will also be making an appearance at the upcoming BuildEx Calgary event on October 26, 2022, in conjunction with Goodfellow Schuett Law.

Topic: Managing Change and Risk in Construction

The subject was also delivered in Vancouver at the BuildEx Trade Conference and Trade Show in March this year to a full-capacity audience.
